

UNIVERSITY AND SUCCESSFUL LIFE

There are a lot of thinks of university dilemma. Some people are defending to have to go university for successful life. Some people are defending to have not to go university for successful life. In this essay, I will do my best to explore the two contrasting views and express my opinion about this topic and explain the reasons behind my belief.

According to some people, university prepare to life. According to some people, university don't prepare to life. From my point of view, university is nice, but going university don't need for successful life. Because some people were being successful. Such as Steve Jobs, Thomas Edison, etc... According to this person, university or school is waste of time.

Nowadays, Going a university is seemed to look like a big stuff. There is this opinion for years. Unfortunately, Universities are not solving unemployed. For example, the rate of finishing university is 20% while rate of unemploye is 10% in Turkey. In spite of rate, people do not believe it.

Consequently, Nowadays there is not means of going university. Because universities are not giving true education. So starting life early is significant. However, It is important to acknowledge that, university is nice but going university is not too important.

There are a lot of thoughts on the university dilemma. Some people argue that one does not need to attend university for a successful life. However, from my point of view, attending university is nice, but one does not need to attend university to have a successful life. Because some people were being successful, such as Steve Jobs, Thomas Edison, etc.

According to these individuals, attending a university or school is a waste of time. Nowadays, going to university seems like a significant step. (Suggestion to my student: I corrected some minor grammar errors, but this paragraph is not an adequate Body Paragraph and there is something missing in clarity.)

Nowadays, going to university seems to look like a big stuff. There is this opinion for years. Unfortunately, universities are not solving the problem of unemployment. For example, the rate of graduating from the university is 87% while the rate of unemployment is 10% in Turkey. Despite this, people do not want to believe it.

Consequently, as I have indicated above, nowadays, it is not a must to go to a university. Because universities are not giving true education. So, starting life early is significant. It has some serious advantages. However, it is important to acknowledge that university is nice but going university is not that important in this century.
